6 February 1995.

Dear Professor Barbedo,

Many thanks indeed for your fax of 2 February inviting me to attend the Closing Sessions of the course on Indonesia and East Timor in Lisbon from 21-27 March next. It would be a great honour to be there and I accept your invitation with pleasure. Paula has already informed me what is involved. If it is acceptable to you I will aim to arrive late on the afternoon of Tuesday, 21st March, and depart on the evening of Sunday, 26 March, since I have an important meeting in Oxford (of the Cambodia Trust) on Monday, 27 March.

I would be happy to speak on any theme relating to modern Indonesian history, the Indonesian-East Timor relationship (if it can be graced by that word), and the resistance struggle in East Timor itself. As Paula may have told you I am involved with the publication of two books on East Timor which will appear in August this year under the imprint of Cassell (London). They are: East Timor at the Crossroads: The Forging of a Nation (edited jointly with George Carter-Bentley for the Social Science Research Council [New York] and based on conference papers given on East Timor in Oxford [December 1990] and Washington [April 1991], including a 2,000 title bibliography on East Timor covering the period 1970-1994), and Generations of Resistance: East Timor (60-page historical introduction for 120 photographs on life in East Timor and the Santa Cruz massacre by Steve Cox). Paula has copies of the manuscripts for both these books, so she will be able to enlighten you regarding their contents. If you wanted a specific title from me, it could be 'Indonesian Perceptions of East Timor: From Majapahit to Suharto's "New Order"'.

My coordinates here in Oxford are as follows: Trinity College, Oxford OX1 3BH, Tel: [+44]-1865-279867 [Direct] 279900 [Lodge] 57876 [Home]; Fax: [+44]-1865-279911, and my current position is: Fellow and Tutor in Modern History. My brief cv is as follows: Born: Rangoon, Burma (30 April 1948). Educated: Temple Grove Preparatory School (1955-61), Winchester College (1961-65), Grenoble University (Diploma in French Language and Literature); Oxford University (1966-69) (First Class Honours in Modern History BA); Cornell University (Southeast Asia Studies Program) (1969-70), Oxford University DPhil. ('Pangéran Dipanagara and the Making of the Java War, 1825-30') 1975; Prize Fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford (1974-79); British Academy Visiting Fellow in SE Asia (1976-77); Fellow and Tutor in Modern History, Trinity College, Oxford (1979 to present), Executive Director Asian Studies Centre (St. Antony's College, Oxford) (1985-88); Founder Chairman, Cambodia Trust charity (Oxford) (rehabilitation of mine victims in Cambodia) (1989 to present). Publications: The Archive of Yogyakarta, Volume I (British Academy, 1980); Babad Dipanagara. An Account of the Outbreak of the Java War (1825-30) (Kuala Lumpur, 1981); Born in Fire: The Indonesian Struggle for Independence (Athens[x], 1988); The British in Java, 1811-1816. A Javanese Account (British Academy, 1992); and East Timor publications cited above.
